jest, esteeming the consideration thereof to be of some moment? Utpote quam tot & tanti authores diligenter excoluerunt; amongst whom Venerable Bede hath not disdain'd in lib. de rerum natura to write thus much, Cometa repente nascentes regni mutationem, aut pestilentiam, aut bella, ventos aestusve portendunt: Comets suddainly shewing themselves, do portend the mutation or change of a Kingdom or Government, a Pestilence, wars, winds, or strange parching heats, and the reason hereof is given by the learned Campanella lib. 2. pag. 95. Astronomicorum: Non modo experientia, sed demonstrativa ratio suadet, Cometas super inferiora valere plurimum: Not only common experience, but demonstrative Reason doth inform us, that Comets do very much operate, or have strong influence upon our inferior Bodies: Cum enim omnia regantur lucis & caloris actione, sitque mundus instar Horologii bene ordinatus, palam est, quod additio Luminis aliquid plus facit, turbatque ordinarias actiones, cursusque rerum: For sith all things are governed by the Action of Light and Heat, and the world is not unlike to a Clock well ordered; it is evident, That the Addition of Light doth operate somewhat more than usual, and disturbs or puts out of frame ordinary Actions, and the regular course of things. These things premised, I intend (God assisting) to give unto the world, in this short ensuing Discourse, what account I am able of that Comet or (Stella Crinita) and its natural signification, which appeared from the 9. of December (if not sooner) 1652. until the later end of that month or more, not onely unto us in England and Scotland, but also in Rome and all parts of Italy, Germany, Denmark, yea in all or most Nations of Europe; it was also visible in Barbados, and in all those Plantations in the west Indies, as I am credibly informed. Wheresoever the Comet was seen, it begot an earnest desire in the beholders to know or understand what might be the Portents thereof; in Rome and Italy, especially the Cardinals and Church-men were much astonished; and it created great amazement amongst the people in Dantzick; Denmark, mark, Holland, Zealand, and other of the united Provinces (as indeed it very well might) for especially they must suffer. I hope I may lawfully and without Offence unto God or the Laws of this Nation, deliver a probable Conjecture, what those Accidents may be which from hence are signified to come upon Mankind, what Nation, City or Cities, part or parts of the world may be most concerned herein: For, Data etiam hominibus esse tanquam signa, decent experientia: That such like Prodigies are sent forth that men might take notice of them, Experiences manifest. Non quidem ut bestiis significant, efficiuntur, quæ ipsos non considerant, these Comets are not made, or created to signifie any thing to brute Beasts, for these dumb Creatures consider not Comets; Neque ut Angelis, meliora signa & spiritualia cernentibus, nor are these produced for use of Angels, these discerning better and more spiritual Signs; Ergo ut hominibus, qui corporalia ratione considerant, These Comets therefore are apparent for benefit of men, who consider with Reason these Corporeal substances. And my discourse may the more freely be admitted publike view, sith no meaner a man then T. G. B. D. viz. Thomas Gataker Batchelor of Divinity, Parson, Rector, or rather Receiver of the Tithes, profits, and all appurtenances of church duties of Redriff near London (though my simple Antagonist) sith he I say in those pittiful and illiterate Annotations of his upon Jer. 10. ver. 2. seems to warrant this Inquiry, nay he doth positively affirm it lawful. These are that old silenced or dumb Ministers words, as himself renders them in his impudent Pamphlet, writ against me, containing 26. sheets of scolding, viz. Other Signs there are extraordinary in dreadfull apparitions, besides the Ordinary course of the Creature, by which the Lord doth sometimes give notice unto his people of his displeasure, and warning of ensuing wrath, and these God doth not inhibit his people to be affected with, and taking of them unto heart; Master G. quotes Joel 2. ver. 30, 31.

And I will shew wonders in the Heavens and in the Earth.

The Sun shall be turned into Darknes, and the Moon into blood; blood; before the great and terrible day of the Lord come. He also quotes Luke 21. ver. 11. 25.

Fearful fights and great Signs shall there be from Heaven, &c.

And there shall be Signs in the Sun, and in the Moon, and in the Stars: thus Master Gataker formerly a stiff Prelate, Preaching impudently for the Liberties or sports of the Sabbath, v. z. Cards, Dice, &c. Afterwards in hope of Bishops, Deans or Chapter-Lands a pretended Presbyterian, since its decay, the poor man is mute, and hath willingly silenced himself from Preaching, and now like a Child teaches, or is taught a new Mode of spelling to his Profelites, and Cants the Art of Lying and Scolding to the wives of Billings-gate, himself being unmarried. But to the subject matter of this discourse, I account Comets as the most illustrious & highest Prodigies of Heaven. Cometa, meteoron nobilissimum est cum propter magnitudinem & diuturnitatem, tum propter motum, & futurorum significationem: Verro: lib. 5. cap. 3. A Comet is a most noble Meteor, both for its magnitude, and continuance, as also for his motion and signification of future events. In mundo multos significant effectus mirabiles: These signifie in the world many wonderful effects: Above ten years since, considering the three oppositions of ♄ and ♀ in 1652. 1653. we in our Prophetical Merlin predicted some such Comet or Sight then to appear; for in page 115. of that book over against 1652. we wrote these words.

Strange apparitions and unusual Sight in the South-East parts.

Although with our own eyes, wee several nights beheld this hairy Comet, yet we never intended (though much importuned) to have published any thing of its Pre-sage, or signification, having scarce twenty dayes before, by the extraordinary labour, and favour of some eminent and nonourable Grandees of the late Parliament, obtained our enlargement, upon special Bail, to attend again when the Committee of Plundered Ministers should require our appearance: I most humbly thank those Persons of Honour, who who were not ashamed to speak in my behalf, the day of my Commitment, and I am sensible how much I am obliged to the Civilities of the two Chair men, the first day when I was Committed and the 11. of November, when enlarged, and let me not be uncivil to Master Serjant Burket, but freely acknowledge his Courtesies unto me, who not only entertained me at his Table, but most nobly at my departure quitted me of all Fees due unto himself: What shall I say? the Dregs of a Presbyterian faction secured me, but the Persons of most learning, Honour and Justice, in the late Parliament, enlarged me. Had I spent so many hours in serving God, as in that Parliaments service, I had escaped what I suffered. I might have expected more favour from Turks or Jews: but my enemies were Presbyterians, who had they not been miraculously routed, had resolved to embroil this Nation in Civil broyls, and to have destroyed this very Army, which gave them life and being; However, in regard I lived many years under their Authority, I have not one grain of Dirt to cast upon their Actions, the Nations general Complaint is sufficient to enform any rational man, why that Authority was dissolved; yea even that Parliament (to the wonder of the whole World) which had raised so many thousand Souldiers, so many Millions of Treasure, which had overthrown two Kings, descended of a continued Race of Kings, I say even those men that sat there in that Council were in a moment dissolved, not a Man or Child, or any person lamenting their Downfall, but every one rejoycing in City or Country, not caring what became of themselves in future, so they might see the Confusion of those men, who were unthankfull unto all Deserving men that had served them; who were never willing to make up a full House unless for private ends of their own: so despicable was the Honour of that sometimes terrible Parliament now become, only by the fury and intemperat self-ended Plots of a numerous Presbyterian faction or Party. But laying aside that party, there were not more noble, more wise, or just men in Europe than sat in that Parliament; but those good Patriots were still out voted: The Lord double his Spirit of understanding upon those Members which now govern, and give them discerning Spirits, that seeing the Errors of the former Parliament, they may redeem that Honour those Members lost.

But to my intended work, Having at last resolved upon the ensuing discourse, or to write somewhat upon the Comet, being well assured I should find some to carp at such observations as my self had made, I addressed my self unto that Reverend and Godly Divine Master William Oughired, Rector of Aldbury in Surrey, a person of such honour, integrity, and rare learning in the Mathematiques, that he is not at this time to be paralleled in Europe, famously known and much esteemed in foreign parts, for those deep pieces of his emitted into the world, especially, for that little but incomparable Book of his called Clavis Mathematica: Such Observations of his as himself had observed, which I know are exact, he freely sent me in these words.

Sir,

I Have here sent you what I observed about the last Comet: I could not do it by Master Gratorex, by reason that he did not signifie your mind to me but presently before his departure. We dwell here between Hills, and have not very often a clear Sky: so that many nights of that short time it continued, it appeared not to us. The first sight I had of it (and the first time that ever I heard it was seen) was upon Thursday December the ninth 1652. past eight at night: it was then about four degrees westward of the head of the Hare, or fera Orionis. My second sight of it was upon Saturday night the eleventh: it was ascended then as high almost as the fore-shoulder of Orion, somewhat near his shield. The third time was upon Tuesday the fourteenth day at night: at which time it had attained to the lowest and westermost Star of the Pleiades. The fourth time was upon Wednesday night the fifteenth: it was then come up almost as high as the left foot of Perseus, better than three degrees gyres from the Star there, and making almost an Isocles triangle with it, and the Star in the talare or wing, on the west side. Upon the sixteenth being Thursday at night, it was gotten a little above a right line with those two Stars, and but little further from the Star in the wing, than that is from that in the foot, westward of both : this was the first view I had of it. The last was upon Sunday night the nineteenth, when it was come as high as the eye of Medusa, wanting scarce a degree ; and almost in a right line with it, but a very little within toward the body of Periclus. Since I have not seen the Comet : yet upon Monday night the twentieth, two other men younger much than I, being with me looking, said, that they saw it a little above the eye of Medusa : but my dimmer sight could not perceive it. And since some that dwelt above the hill in a clearer Skie, assured me they saw it some nights since, more than four degrees above Medusa's eye. I have here sent you the form of the Comet for some of the first nights of its appearance ; the outward part of the effluxion was more dark, and towards the midst more luminous : I could sometimes see a little round Star in the Center. At the first appearance the whole diameter seemed to be neer fourteen inches ; and moved very fast : but the motion of it became much slower, and the Comet shewed lesser and more bright : for the outward duskyish hair vanishing, the inner part shewed more clear, but much less : for at last the diameter seemed not to exceed seven Inches. This is all the account I can give of it.

knowledge; these shall (with my grateful acknowledgement of your kindness to me) give you notice, that I have observed with wonder an unusual appearance in the Skie; which perhaps your self hath likewise seen, yet I think good to let you understand the form and description, and motion thereof, according to my best apprehension. On Thursday night about the seventh hour, A Souldier came in and told me, he saw a strange starr, I went out and saw Eastward a dull appearance somewhat like a starr in a mist, of a waterish white, with an obscure radius or beam which pointed out toward the East, I took notice what fixed starrs it was neer unto; on the last Lords day at night about h. 6. the same man with me observed that it was much higher, and had left the other starrs which before were with it, the colour and form was still the same; I now again this Tuesday Dec. 14. h. 6. find it very neer the Pleiades, with the Radius which before was on the left as to me, now directed more downward from the mid-heaven Eastward, very obscure and not discerned without diligent view of it: its motion I observe to be as the Suns in the Spring, tis now in g as I conceive, tis erratically, yet no Planet. I shall think my self much more obliged to your courteous hand, if I may have a word or two in answer, what your judgment is concerning this which I think I may call A dull Comet.

IN the most Eastern parts of England lat. 52. 30. Thursday
Julian style 9. day of Decemb. 7. P M.

There appeared an hairy Starr or Comet in the head of the Hare in the 10. degree of Gemini: having South latitude 39.
degr. 10. min.

The same Comet was seen Dec. 10. the same hour and there
degr. 29. Gemini. South latitude 27. deg- 51. min.

It was seen there the third time on Sunday 12. December about the same hour amongst those starrs in Gemini which are in the Constellation of Taurus, having then latitude South 9. grad.
20. min. 4. or 5. degrees in the nether part of Aldebaran.

It was lastly seen with us yesternight Decem. 14. 8. ho. P.M. in Conjunction with the Pleiades and 30. scruples, tending towards the consequence of the signes. Saturday and Monday, viz. 11, and 13. of Decem. having not a cleer ayr, nothing was seen.

It is desired (if any can satisfie our judgement herein) the Phasis of this Phænomenon, whereby its Parallax might be known and from thence his distance from the earth might be obtained,

December 19. 1652.

HAve none of you Londoners yet seen the starr I wrote of, we bere first took notice of it on Thursday was seavenight, Dec. 9. have seen it every clear night since Dec. 10. 13. that is all but Friday was seavenight, and Monday night; which being cloudy or misty, neither that nor any other starr appeared when I wrote to you last of it, that is on Thursday night last, It was with the Pleiades.

It is now higher, namely with Medusa's head, one degree below the light starr in it; it moves in his proper motion from the South-east to the North-west, but every day slower than other, so that whereas, from the first time we saw it to the second, that is from December 9. to the 11. it went about 21 or 22 degrees, now in the same space it goes not above 6. that is about 3 degrees in 24 houres; it is now like a starr of the first Magnitude, but only Paler and Duller, It comes to the Meridian now about 8 of the clock at night, or about foureteen degrees Southward from our Zenith; so that it will seem almost over our heads; sometime we have plainely scene a tayl or beames cast from it Eastward, and to a good distance, at other times not so clearely.

Another dated December 22.

December 20 we saw it again, neer the bright star which is in Capite Medusæ, but it seemes dimmer and duller than formerly, as if it were wearing away.

Astrological Predictions.

A Letter from Barbadoes.

A Nother thing remarkable was, That Star bere seen, about the time that Prince Rupert and his Brother Maurice were at our Leeward Islands dispersed by an Hurricane, three weeks before Christmas last; it appeared in the sign Gemini, in the eighth sphere by the Bull star, and was seen at every evening by the seven stars, very near our Zenith. The first week more bright, the second more waterish, dusky, of a leaden colour, and yet no cloud near it; the Rayes or Beams issuing out of it, bright, streaming to the North, were appearing three yards long, not in form of a Pyramis, contracting in the end, but dilating in form of a Beesom of equall length, and at last vanished by an irregular motion Northward.

To his much honored Friend
Mr. James Howel.

From Scotland.

dè constat cometam fuisse, & situm suum in regione elementari habuisse.

IN the Month of December 1652. even almost from the beginning of that Month unto the 23. of the same, there appeared unto us a star with a Tayl, of the magnitude of Venus, when she is in her Perigeon, of colour somewhat red, coming neer or almost like unto rusty iron, or dark blew; but it was not so cleer as the planet Venus: it appeared unto us in the highest elementary Region, underneath the girdle of Orion, with a tayl in the beginning stretched out towards the rising of the Sun on the 10. or 11. of December, besides his diurnall revolution, it had also an oblique motion from the fixed starrs in the girdle of Orion towards the setting of the Sun in his solstice, viz. when he enters Cancer, by the Pleiades, beyond the head of Medusa, untill at length (about the 23. of December, from which time it vanished) it became almost verticall to England, from that time it appeared lesse in shew and lesse in cleerness: the tayl of it disappeared about the 15. December, yea the whole Comet or Starr after the 23. December, had far greater Parallax than the Parallax of the Moon, whereby it is evident that it was a Comet, and had his seat in the Elementary Region.

By all which, and the testimonyes of many hundreds I can affirm, the Comet I write of was existent in Rerum natura, and also first appeared neer unto the time I mention: yet there are some do affirm it appeared the 6, 7, and 8. of December: viz. 3 dayes sooner, and some about the first of December. The form of the Comet as delineated by the curious pen of Mr. Oughtred was thus.

Some

Cometa: Decemb

1632

Some in England observed dispersed haire neer unto the Comet tending towards the East, not much unlike to the nature or form of a Tayl, or as it appeared in Scotland ; twice my self observed it so : but of that when I speak of its effects ; for those haire do signifie Prælia in locum ad quem tendunt, viz. warr to that place unto which they incline or tend.

Then let the Dutch towards whom the tayl pointed in time beware , for a most bitter portion of Vengeance is drawing neer unto them, and ready to fall further upon them and their people in all parts of the world. And as they have been instrumentall in occasioning covertly or openly the spilling most part of that blood which hath been shed in Europe for this 34.years , so is there a Viall of wrath brim-full to be powred amongst them, which will not leave them untill most of that Nation are massacred , and their Name so odious, that it shall be a sufficient disgrace for any to avow himself a Dutch-man : The Dutch have many ships, they shall be masters but off few ships are halfe seven yeares are ended, except they comply with England.

But I proceed : there are at this day two opinions, concerning the matter and nature of Comets, the one of Aristotle and his followers, the other of Paracelsus.

The Aristotelians do say that a Comet is an earthly vapour, somewhat thick, fast and fat in substance, like Oyl or Birdlime, which being drawn upwards near to the Sphear of the fiery Element, is there, by Heat rarified, &c.

The Stoucks say, Comets are ordinary Stars, &c. But this opinion hath no consent of Antiquity, read Seneca ; some hold a Comet to be only a Cloud purged and purified from earthly matter and grossness, receiving Light from other Stars, and then casting abroad clear streakes of brightness, small and slender like unto hair or fine-wrought flax ; and this hath much of reason to confirm it ; yet do I hold all Comets to be supernatural, and that the matter of them is not perfectly known unto mortal men. Paracelsus, a greater naturalist than Aristotle, plainly tell us, That a Comet is Crescens singulare, not produced from any Matrix, or any seed, but composed by Angels or Spirits : and these saith, he do usually foretell future Events, either blessings or misfortunes, life or Death, Dearth or plenty, War or Peace : the Spirits well knowing such or such accidents shall come to pass, do form a Star or Comet, and give it figure or shape as they please, and lead or draw along through the Ay higher or lower the said Comet, the better that people may behold it, that so from thence they might draw a signification of those Events, which are likely to ensue ; and more plainly in his 8. Book De Meteoris, he maintains thus much, that a Comet is not derived from any natural cause, but its beginning and continuance is performed by Angels or Spirits, and that it portends usually some new or unusual thing at hand, some sudden mutation or public-like evil, or some such like matter prejudicial to those Regions where it is visible, and that the course, and morion thereof is wholly directed by Spirits or Angels, that they might manifest unto mortals, those continued afflictions or

or admirable Chances or mutations at hand; this is the opinion of the famous Paracelsus, unto which our self do but in part adhere. For we believe that the Configurations of the superior bodyes ought not wholly to be excluded this judgment, especially of the two superior Planets Saturn and Jupiter, when their Conjunctions or Oppositions shall fall out in, or towards the Autumn of those yeares wherein there is not much moisture.

There are many things considerable ere a true judgment can be given upon this Comets effects. viz. Magnitude, Colour, Splendor, Form, Continuance, Seat, Place, Motion, Relation to the Sun, habit as to parts of the World.

This Comet was not great, it seemed to the eye to be neere unto the bigness of a peuter platter of 14. or 15. inches Diameter; and round, but at sometimes & in some parts it appeared with a tail. Its Colour was waterish or like unto Tin, with us in London of a leaden Colour, during the 9, 10, 11. and 12. dayes of December, afterwards it became of a more obscure, paler, waterish colour, or duskish, neere unto an imperfect dull leaden colour, towards its vanishing, and late in the night, the Colour was scarce discernable, or what was, seemed more pale or waterish if possible, the matter beeing spent, and its luster departed or decayed; I very well remember the tenth of December when first I beheld it, being abroad in the streets, its colour was transparent almost like unto a cleere Tinny colour, in so much as having not heard any thing of a Comet, I judged what I saw was some vapors collected into that form about the Moon, but presently entring my study, I found the Moon in Virgo, and not above the Horizon; I then judged it a Comet or some unusuall apparition.

It did continue visible more or less as the aire was either serene or dark about twenty dayes, Some say more, and then vanished towards the North Pole, as usually all Comets do.

It appeared first about the tenth degree of Gemini in the last Asterism of Taurus, and so by a Retrograd motion, passed

sed through the middle part of that Asterism, and ended in the first part of it, as most men did observe; his whole course or motion in the Zodiack was about twenty degrees.

It arose after the Sun was set, and was therefore Occidental of the Sun, nor was any planet neere it, and as to the part of the world it seemed to point out the East part or South-East parts: and if the time of its first appearance be certain, in the figure of Heaven it will fall to be in the Oriental and ascending part, viz. in the 12, 11, and 10. houses of Heaven. First, it seemed unto us in London meerly of that nature which we attribute to Jupiter and Venus: In Scotland they affirme it appeared of a dull martiall colour, afterwards its colour was of Saturn, Mercury, and the Moon; but hereof in our judgment.

The Comet (I treat of) though it was not absolutely of a Martial or red colour, yet by reason of its beginning in, Continuance, progress thorough, and ending in such violent Constellations and figures or Formes of the Zodiack as we know to be of evill influence, shall manifest unto the world most wonderfull effects and many sad Actions carried on with much secrecy and deceit: Quotiescunq; igitur in mundo Cometa apparuerit, toties orbi terrarum angustias pronuntiatio: Minerva. lib. 2. fol. 18. As often as any Comet appears in the world, thou mayst assuredly pronounce unto the Inhabitants of the Earth Tribulations, sorrowes, and afflictions; This Comet signifies many fierce tempests, many sad and lamentable Conflicts and Battles both at Sea and Land, more impetuous blasts of wind then usually strange Treacheries, unnatural barrenness or dryness of the Earth, corrupt ayres, pestiferous qualities reigning therein; from such corruptions the death of cattle follows, & the ill nourishment of the fruits of the Earth, thence a Plague, Famine, and such like misfortunes unto mankind.

The Earth in vain ~~all~~ never gaze, when Comets in the skyes do blaze.

As the Comet was neere unto a joviall colour, Legum mutationem, mortem Pontificum pronuntiatio: Hence may be expected

Astrological Predictions.

sted; and assuredly it will come to pass, viz. A change or alteration of Lawes (in England we know it already to be true, but there is more behind) : The Extirpation of Presbytery, or the death of Popes, Priests, and proud Prelates; De te narratur fabula, Mr. Gataker, for you are yet in the number of the Priesthood, though you never sacrificed a Bullock. Inter nobilissima quæ in aëre videntur ostenta, sunt Cometæ : Therefore if a Comet or Comets be accounted amongst the most noble Sights which are visible in the ayr, surely they can signify no small or Petty Matters; and indeed the absolute Routing of Mute, Dumb, and old dotting Priests, and of a seditious frye of Juniors brethren, will appeare to be the effects of this Comet, and the Actions of this next twenty succeeding years.

But let us if possible begin to come neerer unto particulars, and find out an Epoche from whence we may derive a more candid judgment.

In 1572. a New Star appeared in Cassiopeia fixed, continuing so 14. Months: forty six yeares after that the Comet or blazing Starr in 1618. appears with a fiery tayle to purpose about 30. dayes.

In December 1652. viz. 80. yeares after the New Starrs appearance, this Comet of which I now write of appeared.

The New Star was the Prodromus or forerunner of the Downfall of all Monarchicall Pomp, Pontificall pride, and all Tyrannicall Government all over Europe: and it is also evident unto me that the Dominion or Government of all Europe shall in a manner come into the hands of one onely eminent Person ere the yeare of our Lord God 1692. True it is, the world will be amazed at the sudden Actions of a person lately born or to be born within two yeares from hence, but he shall not be the man, being ordained like Alexander to dye in the midst of his Achievements, &c.

Forty six yeares, viz. from 1572. untill 1618. the Princes and Prelates of Europe had warning to amend, but they did not: in 1618. God sent that terrible Comet again to give the same people warning, they amended nothing; therefore God permitted the influence of that Comet co-operating rating with the effects of the first Conjunction of Saturn and Jupiter in the fiery Trygon to exasperat mens minds against their superiors, by War, Insurrections, &c. Not one Prince amended, or a Priest repented, God was then angry. Ergo, by an irregular or not vulgar Congress of the two Superiors in 1642. again, God gives more warning unto the Potentates of the Earth, and the Ministry, to reform; Gods Signals are despised, Princes grew more high, the Prelate more proud. But then behold Gods revenging hand, and consider what the Almighty hath done in England since 1642. Kings are Expulged, Episcopacy extinguished, our Priesthood not reformed: Paries cum proximus ardet. God doth by this Comet give further admonition unto all the Clergy of Europe, especially to those of England and Scotland, that if they amend not, than the greatest affliction and misery which ever befell unto a people, will befall upon the whole body of the Clergy all over: and that the old stiff-neckt churl Mr. Gataker and his envious associates may perceive its not my single judgment upon the effects of this Comet, Let him read what I write, and he shall perceive I only deliver the sense of other Authors: and these no Heathens, though he prove all he writes on Jer. 10. ver. 2. by Strabo, Pliny, Lucian, and Cicero, &c. else he might go sleep.

It is consented unto on all hands, that this present Comet began in Gemini.

Cometa apparens in Geminis: Deiciuntur religiosi & Deo servientes & vilipenduntur: significat etiam rixas, belli semina-ria, magnates cadent à suis dignitatibus: Justinus in speculo, 319. If a Comet or blazing Star appeare in the signe Gemini, Religious Orders, and those who superstitiously pretend to serve God, shall be dejected and not esteemed so much as a Rush: The seed plots of warr, and many contentions shall arise, Great men shall be overthrown and lay aside very unwillingly their Offices. Cometæ non frustra apparent, sed conspiciuntur ut denuntiant res magnas, ut admoniti mitigare eas studeamus; Comets appeare not in vaine, but are beheld that they may shew wonders at hand, that we being admonished nished thereby, might endeavour to mitigate those judgments intended against us. And in very deed if we either consider the Comets place in the Full Moon at or neere its first appearance, or in the figure of the Sun his entrance into the Tropick of Capricorn, some days after the Comet first shewed its self; we shall find that the sign Gemini was both times the Cusp of the ninth house, and at the New Moon next after its apparition or post ventionall the sign Gemini was upon the Cusp of the twelfth house: which significantly giveth this Prognostication; That matters of Religion, Men Religious in the account of the World, should be in part a main subject of such Actions as are by Divine providence ordained to manifest themselves from this Comet; and that they should by their sturdy behaviour, pride & avarice, at last bring themselves to contempt and all manner of scorne and contumely; and I fear utter loss of all Tythes, and Ecclesiastical preferments. So much is manifested by this Comet, and now let Mr. Gataker write another Commentary on the 10. of Jeremy and vers. 2. and prove his Annotations to be canonicall by Strabo and Cicero two pure Heathen Authors.

Again we will heare more Authors, and amongst the rest a Priest: This Comet began in Gemini, an human sign, Ergo, mankind must suffer, and preposterous or unadvised Counsels must bring Man, Kings, Kingdoms, Commonwealths, new and old unto Destruction. Etsi apparuerit Cometa in Gemini & ex parte Orientis, significat multos magnates cadere à dignitatibus suis, & interfectiones regum: A Comet appearing in Gemini, doth portend many great persons to be cast out of their Offices, or to lose their dignities, as also the Killing of Kings, which in Europe cannot have a proper signification; in the room whereof if we put the Chief or Principall men of many Nations, the Aphorism may hold true: We in England have seen the performance of the first part hereof, the later part may take place ere 1672. Erit etiam dejectio Religiosorum; There will be a routing of Priests or pretending Religious men, or such men will suffer, even just such as Mr. Gataker who receives 200 l. per annum, and yet preacheth

But I might be reputed partial and injurious to the whole Priesthood if I said it concerned them only: Ortus Cometarum est fatum omnium populorum circulo ac motui ipsorum subjectionum; generaliter illis denuntiant malum ac miseriam, libertatem ve aut rem aliam novam, aut servitutem; nascuntur enim Cometae ex fato Laicorum & Ecclesiasticorum: Paracels. l. 8. fol. 66. The apparition of Comets is the fate of all people subject to their circle and motion, Comets do usually manifest unto them evill and misery, either liberty or some new thing, sometimes their bondage or slavery, for Comets are begot, to manifest the conditions of the Laity and Ministry.

The worke is not yet finished, true it is in some Countreys viz. England, Scotland, Denmark, and Low Countreys, it is begun, and a foundation laid for acting of greater matters when time and opportunity shall offer themselves, the Sword hath not yet done his part so sufficiently as it must: For if we designe twenty yeares for Continuation of the effects of this Comet, and add 20. unto 1652. we are then led to 1672. Which Period of time is just one hundred yeares after the appearance of the New Star in Cassiopeia. And if we consider or very well observe what person of quality is now born having either relation unto this Comet in the tenth House of his Nativty, or place of the Sun or Moon; or if we observe the Position of Heaven at his birth in relation, either to the Eclips of the Sun in 1652. or 1654. or what concurrence it hath or had with the former Conjunctions of γ & ν or will have with the third Conjunction of β and ν in Sagittarius 1663. we may I say assure our selves, That that man, or the man so qualified by birth shall act his part upon the stage of Europe with so much of Divine assistance, that it will not be in the power of any Prince, King, or Nation to resist him, yet he must dye not aged, and only begin that Dance which another must conclude. The Colour of this Comet being so mixed, doth presage the many turnings and windings of human affaires, or as if the Great God of Nature would settle nothing permanent for many yeares yet to come either in Church or State : Nothing but Combustions and secret contrivances for almost twenty yeares.

It is generally recorded, that when the colour of the Comet is of Joviall brow, yea and intirely his, yet Efficacia bona quedam & mala : Actions both good and evill are signified by it ; The good by command of the Almighty, the evill by his permission, but that cannot be properly evill, which hath relation in effecting or putting Gods decrees in execution. Actio Cometarum est diras calamitates pronuntiare. Goclen; lib. 4. Disputat. 4. A Comets action is to pronounce heavy calamities to mankind; Stella Crinita, quæ Anno 1607. apparuit quam fuit eminosa, instantur tot calamitates ac Ecclesiarum projecta cadavera. Peter Molins pag. 161. de præcognition. fat. And who remembers not the sad afflictions and devastations of Germany presently after 1618. and the disastrous calamities befalling the Protestant party in France upon that Comets effects : for Austria is under the sign Libra, and much of France under Virgo. If we that are now living repent not, what can we expect les than Calamities, answering the height and greatness of our Offences ? And although part of the Actions signified by a Joviall and Veneriall colour may delude our judgments with hopes of Peace or quietness, by meanes of Embassadors, Agents, Commissioners, yet very little benefit for some yeares will accrew unto Mankind thereby, nay those Agents will rather be the firebrands of more sad and manifold afflictions. For a Plague is at hand, and the effects of Saturn will appeare. He denounceth, Inopiam, Tabes, morbos longos, viz. Beggary, poverty to the Farmer in many Countyes, generall Consumptions, tedious and continued Agues and diseases, dissimulations in Treatyes, Dulness in the Magistracy, Heresies in the Clergy and Church.

Magnos futuros morbos, secundos annos peiores sequentibus, for, Cometa est sicut vermis qui illapsus facit arborem exarescere : We shall expect hereafter many diseases, and the latter yeares worse than the former, a Comet being like a worme or Caterpillar, who falling from the Tree, occasions it to wither away to nothing.

Astrological Predictions,

As the Motion of the Comet was Retrograde, or against the succession of signes, so it denotes things & matters upon the stage of this world, shall be acted contrary to former Presidents, or against the regular course of nature, or contrary to the Current of all antiquity, as also many Nations invaded by foreiners landing amongst them; Comete qui contra ordinem signorum feruntur, semper mutationem legum portendunt, Comets which are mooved contrary to the Order of the signes, portend Alteration of Lawes: Observe if it begin not to be so in England already: Other Nations will follow our footsteps. Si ad ortum tendit, pestem significat, So Porphyry: If the Comet tend unto the East it denotes a Plague; yes so it doth, and unto the Eastern part of the world a terrible one: This Comet did so, and a plague we also must expect here in London, and then after ward generally through most of the Eastern and South-East Counties of England: But London (if I may freely speak it) is more concerned by this Comets influence or Portents, than the effects or Calamities of a meer plague or sickness upon man, or to befall upon her Inhabitants. Cometa in Oriente Juventutem significat, The Comets being in the East denotes many of the Cityes youth and Children shall dye of the impending Plague, even at hand, I say London yet twenty yeares more and be wise. Stella Crinita, dat seditiones, hereses, An hairy Comet portends seditions, tumults, uproares, Heresies, Novell and strange opinions in or concerning Religious matters, rebellion against Magistracy or men in Authority, Judges and Grave men slighted, a disobedient Commonalty wilfully whirling themselves down into the pit of Destruction or impoverishment by their own obstinacy: I pray God divert this Judgment from the City of London; assuredly there have not been greater changes in this world, nor in any one City of this world than there wil happen in the City of London ere 1672. a great part, if not the greatest Catastrophe this Comet designs being to fix upon London in the end, and its Inhabitants. *Sed Cynibius aurem vellit, & admonuit linguam comescere nostram. The Lawes of Nations and Kingdomes changed, the Privileges and Charters of Cities and Townes dissolved, a new Magistracy erected, a new frame of Government, all things new, both Men, Magistracy, Lawes, Priesthood, &c. Incendia Cometarum nunquam sine terrore ingenti illuxisse, nunquam sine calamitatibus deflagrasse apparebit. Pencer. 343. Let any malicious fellow search into the History of Comets, and shew me when any Comet or Star (which was not miraculous,) appeared, and that great Calamities followed not; for it is affirmed by Junetine. Spec. Astro. pag. 814. Finis Cometarum est parare siccitatem, pestem, famem, bella, mutationem Regnorum & Rerumpublicarum, Legum, Traditionum; Item ventos, terræ motus, sterilitatem, æstum & magnam caliditatem, The end wherefore Comets do appeare, is to shew driness, a Plague, famine, warrs, mutation of Kingdoms and Commonwealths, of Laws and Traditions, inordinate winds, earthquakes, barrenness, scorching Heat, &c.

The Scotish Nation naturally unquiet, made worse by their Clergy, seemes much concerned from this Comets apparition: about the yeare 1657. and 1658. The Hollander is extremely threatned not only in relation to that he hath in the East Indies, but more properly in the West Indies or Sea voyages unto both places, and indeed some miraculous Changes will about 1660, 1661. manifest themselves in all or the most parts of the West Indies especially in Barbados, and where the Pole is not more elevated then 24. and nos less then twelve or foureteen.

Zeland and Holland, and the United Provinces, especially neere the Brill, the Texell, or that part of those Provinces which ly North-East from Yarmouth, part of Flanders, much of France bordering on the South or South-East of England is lamentably to suffer, the Hollanders by decay of Trade, Divisions intestine, losses at Sea, Tumults, mortality of people, irruption of Sea-banks, and without a present amendment, a Foreiner shall enter even into the Hague & into Amsterdam it self ere 1672. France by famine, pestilence and the sword. of Spain : Scafights neere the Straights of Gilbraltar : so also in the Gulf of Venice, and neere to the Islands of Candia or the Mediterranean Sea , and Crete : Great seditions and risings in that part of Greece neere the Archipelago , as also some very high Rebellion against the Ottoman family in the lesser Asia or Natolia.

And if we proceed to the more Eastern parts of Europe, we shall find Hungaria, Moldavia & Walachia much afflicted by seditions amongst Themselves about their native privileges & Liberties: and some person of eminency indeavoring to be greater than the antient Customes of those Nations permit, and it may be much feared that the Crimean Tartar who border East and North-East upon those last named Nations, may make a most violent irruption amongst them: as also into those parts of the Muscovian Territory, bordering on that salvage people: For out of the East a plague will come, and in the East a Plague will settle: But I must draw neerer our owne Climat, and do say, very great divisions will arise in Denmark about Election of their next King: and a question may be made, whether the Danes will not follow the English for a President: neere the Sound and in the Baltique sea great shipwracks, some Naval conflict, and the Dane againe invaded: Change of Lawes or Customes in Bohemia, and breach of Leagues amongst German Princes, and other Nations; for as the Comet was seated in the Elementary Region, so doubtless Persons of highest Command in all Nations are materially concerned; I shall draw neere unto a Conclusion with this, that Cometa magnas mutationes inducunt tam elementis mundi, quam animantibus etiamq; in Regni status ac Civitates, non tamen ut causæ effectrices, quam signa quedam & soboles ejusdem causæ: Comets do induce great mutations as well in the Elements as in the living Creatures, in the State or government of a Kingdom & Cities, yet not as the efficient causes, but as certain signes the issues of that cause.

The learned have recorded since Noahs flood unto the year 1652. one hundred fifty soure Comets to have appeared, peared, this which I now mention is the one hundred fifty and fift; and if we credit the Authority of many learned men who have wrote of them, we may believe, Cometas quotannisq; exardescunt, mutationes aliquas, Clades aut Calamitates portendere; Peucer de Divinate: pag. 16. As often as Comets appeare they portend some Mutations, Disruptions, or Calamities: Neere unto the Sun his 11. gets into Libra or in the Autumnall quarter of the year 1672. I verily believe a most formidable new Star or very strange Comet will again appeare unto the Inhabitants of Europe, and first shew it self in the Tropick sign Cancer neer to the beginning of it: I have some secret Astrological Rules which lead me unto this judgment: if it be so, then the number of Comets since Noahs flood will amount unto 156. and that falling in the year 1672. viz. just one hundred yeares after the appearance of that famous New Star in Cassiopeia, calls unto my mind the Oracle of Sibylla which neer upon that time will begin to manifest it self effectually, viz. Orictour Sydous in Europa cojus radij: There shall a Starr arise or appeare in Europe, whose beames, &c. shall suddenly amaze Mortal men: And indeed not only the Divine Scriptures, but also the Oracles of the Sybills and of many other Prophetical souls, have left recorded unto posterity in their writings, that towards the last days or times, there should be more frequent apparitions in the Air, more Comets, more Blazing Stars, more ominous and frequent Eclipses, &c. Those transcendent Catastrophes, Revolutions of States, Monarchies, Kingdoms, Commonwealths which then viz. 1672. shall be on foot in Europe almost in every Nation thereof, shall give cause of Admiration unto the whole World, and occasion a dutifull thankfulness in the hearts of such of Gods people, who then shall be alive and see such wonders, and be so happy as to be partakers of those Divine Truths and high Mysteries of Godliness at that time revealed, and publicly countenanced by Authority: such and so great Mysteries they will be as that even the sharpest sighted in our time living, have but a glimpse or meere shadow thereof in their profoundest Notions.

Astrological Predictions.

Norions. Unto these so great discoveries of knowlege, the Divine works of Jacob Behmen, and of some other Orthodox men now alive, shall give a beginning, or shew forth the first Lights hereof: nor was Jacob Behmen a Dutch Wizard as the slanderous pen of Mr. Gataker that covetous wretch would make the world believe; he was a godly plain man, upon whom the Spirit of God did abundantly manifest its selfe: he was no Ordained Priest: doth the bare imposition of hands from a simple sinfull Priest give the Spirit of Prophecy or preaching? No such thing: But you shall hear what Behmen prophetically delivers of the later times; Know this, saith he, That a Lilly blossometh to you, yee Northern Countreys, if you do not destroy it with the Sectarian contention of your learned men, it will grow to be a very flourishing or great Tree among you: But if you rather chuse to contend, dispute and wrangle, than to know the true God, the Ray or influence will pass over you, and touch but some few, and then afterwards you will be forced to fetch water from strangers for the thirst of your souls: No marvell I say therefore if many modern Divines envy the writings of this man, sith he so plainly prophecied of their Divisions, Contentions, and Disagreements one amongst another, of their unwillingness to propagate the Gospel of Christ, of their malice to all plain godly people whom God hath gifted with gifts above themselves; of their Logical wranglings and ungracious Disputes rather to cloud than set forth the Glory of the most High God; of their scorning and disobedience to the Civil Magistrat; of their Tyranny exercised on tender consciences, enslaving them even to desperation; of their exacting Tythes contrary to the Lawes of God or man, living contentiously with their neighbours: and in their lives being no examples of sanctity but of covetousness and prophaneess.

I am more copious upon this subject than willingly I would, in regard I am assured the most principall end of this Comets creation, or manifestation unto Mankind, doth principally designe more clearer discoverie of Scriptures Truths, more perfect understanding many obscure places of Scripture now both dark and difficult, and utterly unknown even to those who at present account themselves most learned: And though Wars, Devastations of Countreys, Levelling of Cities, Mutations of the Customs and Lawes of Nations and Commonwealths shall intervene, as also Rebellions, Famine, and Plagues, and deposing of Kings, murdering, and poisoning of Popes, and overthrowing many in great places of Authority, private murders and other enormities, &c. Yet all these put together shall but make way for those glorious Lamps, Lights or Evangelical spirited men which within these next twenty yeares succeeding shall either wholly or in part shew themselves in Europe: But indeed so long as Monarchy in that Tyrannicall strain or posture it now governes, or Popery as now held forth and by the Inquisition upheld, or Presbytery as it would in strictness appear, or the severe Lawes of some Nations continues, I say, so long as no restriction is had to such Powers as mentioned, Godly men, though never so spiritually qualified cannot have any perfect countenance to manifest and cleerly set forth their purer Notions, without limitation of their superiors, therefore the Sword will assist, and first make way for these manifestations, by Cutting down or Lopping the irregularities of all tyrannical Authority in most Nations, &c. I have carefully observed the natures of those formes or shapes in the Zodiack, either thorough which or by which this Comet made its Transit: and I find that those fixed Starrs are most part of the nature of ♂ and ♀ or ♂ and ♀ : and this is most observable, that the Comet did at first appeare in the head or neer the head of the Hare directly under the left foot of Orion, but it was discovered that towards its vanishing it passed by or came neere the head of Medusa and neere unto that fixed Starr or somewhat higher towards the constellation of Cassiopeia in which the new Starr 1572. was seated: so that after many sad yeares, a chair of rest is promised unto us, yea a firme peace and all earthly tranquillity by this Comet, which first appeard with South Latitude, but disappeared with North Latitude, from

hence I infer, Shall a Man, a Prince, or men, appear unto this World, or in Europe under the Notion of honesty, or born of a mean Progeny or Progenys, or first with small or no forces, or with much humility, at first cloud his or their designs, or begin to shew himself or themselves at first with much humanity and Religion, but afterwards when mounted unto the Top of preferment, then like a furious Jehu, march through the most parts of Europe with an invincible Army, and in every Nation where he comes with the assistance of Clubbs, viz. Common people, and of his Army, destroy, pervert, or change the King, or Prince, or Magistrat, or Authority, then ruling, or having then Dominion; shall he levell mountaines, see Europe in peace, be the occasion to settle an uniformity in Religion, shall he cut off the Hydra heads of Heresys, and strange opinions in the Clergy, shall he restore the lost or forfeited privileges of Nations and people, &c.

France shall be subdued and wholly conquered by this Man; though Italy will endeavour to support the French what they can: Ad ejous genoux soupplex adnatabit classibus Britannia. Wee in England shall most certainly know when these things are neere at hand by observing when France is subdued, for then againe we English shall enter upon the Stage of Providence, our turnes beeing next, and our danger then approaching, and untill then we shall have a portion of Inland Peace and quietness: But as the Comet passed by the Con'tellations of Eridanus, it denotes in this Intervall of time many desperat and stout Sea fights to be performed by our Nation and others, and more frequent Sea fights and more bloody all over Europe, than have been in many ages before. And sith this present Comet of which I now write did most certainly end in Taurus, being the same signe wherein that wondrous New Star in 1572. did both begin and end in, I may therefore probably give my Conjecture, that that this last Comet is very like to give a beginning unto that or those Actions of which that New Star was the heavenly forerunner, whose effects in regard of that Starrs fixedness and permanency were not to begin to manifest themselves themselves untill the third conjunction of Saturn & Jupiter should be celebrat in the fiery Trygon, and in the signe of Sagittarius, because Providence by the regular course of Heaven designed that very signe of Sagittarius for their first conjunction upon their Return into that Kingly and Majestical Trygon: But I must hasten being confind,

Those who wrote what effects do usually follow the appearance of Comets, do presage the Death of Kings and Queens: as Kings and Queens are Prodigies on Earth, in regard there are so few that attain to be so, in that consideration the appearance of a Comet may design such a thing, and so doth this Comet point out a miserable and bloody death to one or more of the greatest Kings or Queens of Europe.

Solet enim benignissimum Numen ubi mensura flagitiorum nostrorum ad plenitudinem venit, & vindictam hic potius temporariam quam eternam parat, naturalium istorum effectuum occasione uti, & terrore illo ad pœnitentiam & sui respectum convertere. The wise Creator of Heaven and earth is wont, when the measure of our wickedness comes to an height, rather to inflict upon us temporall than eternall punishment, and to use for our amendment the occasion of these naturall effects, thereby to Convert us with the terror of those Sightes to a repentance and dutifull respect of him. Wee do now conclude, and desire of Almighty God to direct the hearts of those that sit at the Stern of Government in this Commonwealth, the Lord direct our hearts to stand stoutly unto them as true English for defence of the Commonwealth, and give us patient and willing minds to assist them with our purses for maintenance of those inmesurable Burthens, the pressing occasions of the Times require for maintenance of our Army & Sea Forces; The great God of Heaven direct his Excellency the Lord Generall and all his Counsells both in warre and Peace: and all his noble Officers and Commanders, and let this Nation take notice, as the present Lord Generalls Actions and warrs in England, Scotland, and Ireland, have been superlative, and not to be paralleld by any of our English Kings, so I say, let us believe, the hand of Providence which designed him for such transcendent Actions in warrs, hath also an especiall eye over him for safety of his own person, preservation of us also in peace, against all opposition of our forrein enemies if we wisely submit and not rebelliously resist that Power God doth own. God grant us unity in the Church, and give the Presbyterians so much love unto their Native Countrey as to rejoyce when we worst the Dutch, and not to flag down their heads like sorrowfull Rabbyes, or shut their Church-Doores when the Parliament Order thanks, if these men continue in such a malicious humor to their Countrey, down with the Tythes of such Vipers, and then they will learn better manners: let them say what they will.

JANUARIES Observations.

*Eia mens mea cogita
Nunc miracula maxima :
Quis cœlo rutilas faces
Æternis vicibus dedit,
Ut rerum varient vices ?
Mens sola exoriens Deo.*

THe Yeer begins with murmurings, repinings, and the generall discontents of a sower People, prone, and almost ready prepared to protest against the actions or consults of their Superiours, the Commonalty expecting present ease of their burdens. The councils of a prevalent People are clandestine, and now managed by such as have strong hopes to do their work without discovery. The Souldiery are mild, their desires modest, yet they are the men rampant. Lo, on a sudden mens minds are elevated, and they beleieve all their misfortunes shall quickly determine ; but alas, Heavens have decreed otherways : yet whether Taxes shall be lessened, or Tythes in Specie taken away, or the Law more undone, is now after much enquiry, the Thing onely spoken of. We find neither Union amongst the great ones, nor the desires of the Vulgar rightly tempered. Let us yet have patience ; the Genius of England soars high, and superlative consults are on foot for benefit of us all. From the East or North-east parts of the World, we have pleasing intelligence.

Purification of Marj.

Shrove-tuesday.
Ash-wednesday.

Sad weather for many days.

Enter the King of Denmark, behold thy Tragedy is approaching, Devastation of thy Territories, and much lamentation amongst thy poor Subjects, for their losses, sustained onely for thy folly: the Naval Forces of the English (if submission ere this be not offered) do now make thee tremble. What hast thou to do to uphold that People (I mean the Dutch) whom God hath designed for destruction?

Matthias.

FEBRUARIES Observations.

MAny who lately had either good Offices or Benefices, do either willingly or enforcedly leave them. The crosse influences of the Planets do seem to predict a severe questioning of some formerly entrusted in the Commonwealths Treasury, and affairs; most plead guilty: I beleeve Justice pardons but few. Very great are the controversies of this Moneth, the Clergy nothing pleased, the long Robe discouraged, whilest the blame deservedly might be more truly cast upon the Client then Lawyer: However, mens minds in generall are, or may be disturbed; yet we shall now find by experience, that we the English have some both honourable and prudent Grandeess, who labour for nothing more then the welfare of those Nations under their charge and command. Many great ones seem to deny themselves, and wholsome constitutions are framing, or in posse to be so, which may generally content the patient and long suffering English. The common Law neer this time, or the practical part thereof, seems somewhat curbed; but it will again rise, whilest malicious Presbytery without a generall Massacre never will. Severall hopeful Missives the Superiors of England have, all seemingly tending to the peace of this Nation.

MARCHES Observations.

*In fatis canitur sacris,
Quod temporibus supremis
Regnabunt homines pij,
Sed hæc certe novitatum novitas nova,
Et mirabilibus major omnibus.*

HAppy tidings come to our Governours from the East and Western parts of the World; the English are courted in all Nations: Our burdens are not so intolerable as formerly: Some Acts or Councils are emitted very pleasing to the People. If the Clergy knew any medium, this Nation would be happy. The Souldier swels not, though sufficiently impowered, and also courted; he is modest, and so will be, if no way entangled with a currish and malicious Priesthood, or Presbytery. Many are the hopes, and extreame the desires of some very honourable English Patriots, most of them Lawyers and Souldiers, that our intestine broils or misunderstandings may be rightly apprehended: However, we prepare to Sea, are formidable; fear not the frowns of any, but are feared, and many Nations desire our friendship.

A probability as if some giddy action were in agitation by some hot-brain'd simples, with intention to disturb our approaching happinesse.

Fiat ut petitur. Let fools receive rewards answerable to their folly.

George.

Mark. ———— Yea, and mark the actions of this Moneth, done or performed near this day.

APRILS Observations.

WE are in a fear of sad intelligence from Ireland, it's rather of mortality or pestilentiall diseases, then any mutinous irruption tending to War. At home our Souldiery are not well pleased, but whether male-contented at their own Officers, or the great Councell, is yet to me dubious. A sweet Unity may now be hoped for amongst our Superiours, amongst whom of late some unkind Ruptures had like to have appeared. Blessed be God who is mindfull of some godly men of this Nation, and of the Realm of England, and its Inhabitants; for if a factious or male-contented Party in the City (probably Laodicean Presbyterians) hinder not, or disturb our present Grandeess, great good may come unto this Nation from the sober advisements produced in this Moneth. The more news we receive from Ireland, the lesse we approve it. We begin to fear a Plague, or some more then vulgar Disease amidst our selves. Many things are neer regulating, which have formerly been offensive to the People, who yet repine, and are in fears their worst dayes are not yet over: they begin to mistrust conivance amongst Grandeess, and wish for the Onions and Garlick of Ægypt, but by no means will endure Presbytery.

MAYES Observations.

NEer the Moneths beginning, we have many vain reports from Ireland, as if all things there tended to Sedition, or to an expectation of future trouble. Let the King of Denmark be mindfull of his harsh sleighting the Engliff, and neer this Moneth expect a Retaliation from divine vengeance, to fall either directly on Himself or Family, or upon his unhappy People. More distempered Spirits appear in or neer the City; severall clashings betwixt Authority and a discontented, covetous Clergy: Many Consultations held in secret by the Souldiery. We begin to fear the encrease of a Plague in London; Avertat Deus. If Angels did govern this Common-wealth, they could not satisfie a self-seeking People; for now in this Moneth our Superiours, and also Souldiers are vilified, and strange Paradoxes whispered. Unthankfull People are we, never satisfied, but ever repining. The Saint-seeming Divine under-hand undoes both People, Authority, Souldier and Themselves, by crawling, and creeping, and stealing Mens affections from the present Army and Government. Parliament of England, how long wilt thou suffer these to reign?

Some Offenders chastised modestly.
Cavendum.

The French Pyrats do seem busie, nor is this Moneth free from scuffling at Sea.

John Baptist.

Distempered Passions or Actions appear in the Souldiery, who rather seem male-contented then well pleased ; they seem to hint at some great Action.

Peter.

JUNES Observations.

MAny are now angry in earnest, a wilfull Party obstinately continue a malapert faction, so that the divisions domestical of this Moneth seem high and rampant: and now the wavering Highlander begins to expresse his malice to such of our Forces as he is capable of offending; so indeed doth the more rude of all the Scots People, yet many of them seem modest, and grow weary of Presbyterian tyranny, and their imperious Commands: Sed Cavendum. The English have their severall Fleets of Ships at Sea, and all Europe in admiration of our Sea-Forces, onely our selves are not yet content ed. Did the City of London know her seasons, she might make her self happy neer this Moneth in procuring many gracious Acts for her Honour and Preservation; for many forraign People neer this time send their Agents, Commissioners or Embassadours, either to congratulate our Successes, or to enter into Friendship with us. The storm or fury of our Nations anger seems to reach as far Northward as Denmark; from which Coasts comes unto us very good intelligence, but suddenly seems to be contradicted.

JULIES Observations.

HOW gracious God is unto the English Nation, may now well be seen by that blessed Harmony betwixt or amongst our Superiours themselves, the Souldier and People! How many blessed Acts, and sweet endearing Actions our present Authority are now emitting for publick benefit! I hope this Moneths Result will manifest to all the Nations under their command, and to their own perpetuall Re-nown. We have abundant intelligence from most parts of Europe this Moneth, from the Swedes. Danes and other Northern parts, and a few dayes are like to produce some bickerings, Pyracies or Sea-fights, and sudden Combustions in Holland: Some Risings or Stirs amongst the heathen Scottish Highlanders, I pray God direct our prudent Souldiers and Commanders in Scotland this Moneth, and neer these times, for assuredly some trecherous designs are acting, or in agitation against them. I fear a strange kind of Sicknesse, or Plague, or Feaver is very rife amongst us, such as few Physitians know the cause of. h in AUGUSTS Observations.

WE begin this Moneth with a visible and eminent Solar Eclipse, the effects from hence will manifest themselves some moneths after. Certainly all Europe begin to be amazed on a sudden, and matters very formidable begin to be apparent in Italy, or neer the Alps; perhaps the death of a Pope, Cardinal, or Illustrious Man by Poyson, or untimely death, rather then course of Nature. An untimely Mortality, or Plague, or Pestilence may now much be feared amongst us in England, especially in the Oriental parts; it's God's great mercy if deferred till 1655. Many difficult Debates, strong and continued differences of Judgement do appear; dissolution of former Friendship, under-hand Councils how to ruine one another. Strange Petitions or Demands greatly to the affronting of some in Command. Persons of Eminency in severall Countries either wave their Commands or Offices, or are forcedly deprived of them. An unwholsome Season; the Aire infected, and the Bodies of Men corrupted. Nothing but Scandals and Calumnies retributed to some Persons for their nocturnall cares, in undertaking the preservation of a self-ended People.

About these times sudden and unusuall Pemanifest either much Blood shed, many Pira-

 Weather : a strange Demeanour of the Soul-

SEPTEMBER'S Observations.

HOWl and lament ye troublers of this Common-wealth, whether proud, malicious Clergy-men, or self-seeking Officers of this Nation or Army; or whether you be, or have been corrupt Treasurers, or Receivers of the publick Treasury; or whether you have been of former Authority, and therein false unto your Trust, Divine vengeance managed by our impartial Superiour or Superiours finds you all out, and sentenceth every man according to merit. Those cruell and unmercifull Quondam Superiours of the Presbyterian Gang, must now know there's an Authority above them. Severall smart Petitions, or menacing Papers fly abroad, somewhat to the disparagement of our Great Councell. A strong endeavour in many either to pull down to the very ground the Lawes of this Nation, or to destroy themselves; such an obstinate People neer this time appear. The Souldier seems untoward, and a hard matter it will be to bridle the ambitious Desires of some: The Lord be mercifull to our Governours, and blesse their Consultations in this Moneth, and give every one of them a portion of Solomon's Understanding: the emergencies of the times require it.

Effusio sanguinis in parte Meridiei, mors Malierum pregnantium plus solito.

Pauca pluvia, lites multe in Gallia.

A generall disturbance in France, and probably that Nation in the high way of ruine and desolation.

Let us be carefull of securing our Merchants Goods and Ships about the Lands end, or a little more South-west.

Simon and Jude.

OCTOBER'S Observations. —

WE warily at last, with much difficulty, doe stumble, or more properly are guided by the good hand of God, to produce many high Designs to an happy Conclusion: I cannot find it will go so hard with the Law, as to destroy the Terms. But now let us give ear unto forraign Intelligence; I shall expect very uncouth and sad intelligence from the French Coasts, and from France it self. I finde great struggling to set up some Man or Authority to an high strain of Commands: and although most men who loved our welfare, feared our Divisions neer this Moneth might ruine us, yet towards the latter end of October, all things seem calm and quiet, except the grunting Priest lie out, and struggle to introduce a Presbyterian Authority for the future. Negatur, no such thing sweet Sir John: Mortuus est. The Moneth ends happily, with many gracious Acts or Ordinances, generally giving the People content, but not satisfying those we call Divines by Ordination. Most men of our great Authority receive Honour for their Fidelity: other some pittifully routed and flouted.

November hath xxx. dayes.

All Saints. The Lord so direct this Election, we may find some, amongst forty thousand People, I have in my time conversed with, I have never been so deluded as by pretended Saints.

About these times we make peace with some People to advantage of the English Commonwealth.

On Andrew's day 1652. Captain Owen Cox, a most resolute man, to the great honour of him-self, and English Nation, recovered the Phenix Frigate from the Dutch, formerly by them taken from the English.
Andrew Apostle.

NOVEMBERS Observations.

WE approach now unto another Authority, so God seems to ordain it; I mean new Gratitudes for this Common-wealth again appears, or have election.

Nil nunc ipse humile exordior, aut leve, aut exiguum cano.

Hi ferunt opem

Ærumnis hominum; dant q̃ mala impijs,

Dant præclara pijs præmia, sic Dei

Complent imperium patris,

Complentur q̃ per hos verba prophetica.

At first neer these times here appeareth some dissenting Judgements, and many grand matters controverted at last tending to the good of this Nation. We seem to have pleasing News from our Friends in Scotland: Nor do I find many Pyrates active, or the Merchants much distressed at Sea.

Even to this day, many remain who snarl at the Law, and repine at this present new Authority. Much robbing, and notorious Murthers are frequently heard of; and heavy censures do draw neer to be inflicted upon rebellious or unquiet Spirits. Many ill offices done betwixt persons of Honour, purposely to engage a Party for private ends.

DECEMBERS Observations.

IF we consult with the Influence of the Heavenly Bodies, they intimate a beginning of great happiness unto the Commonalty of this Nation. The Season of the Year is sad and cold, and much harm we shall hear of by intemperate Storms, and blasts of ill Weather. The Souldier, or some Martiall man, begins to rouse up himself; and Intelligence seems to bring news of petty actions or intendments in Scotland, or in the Northern parts of that Nation. If our sins occasion not God's vengeance or anger to fall upon us, I cannot conceive but in generall the present Power concludes all their undertakings with much sweetness, and great alacrity. But what is the intelligence we receive from the West-Indies, Brazile, or Portugall, Turkie, and more remote parts, Italy and the Nations adjacent? surely we may expect from thence very strange Catastrophes, Changes, and sudden Mutations; things and matters there being neerer, or tending to such vicissitudes, as with our eyes we beheld in England 1641, 1642, and 1643. The Year is ended, and my Task finished for the present.

God blesse the Common-wealth of ENGLAND.

Postscript to the Reader.

Waried to behold the giddinesse of the English Nation, who neither love the Lord Generall Cromwell or Army our Preservers; and as sorrowfull to heare the wofull Complaints of many sad distressed people, whose lamentable Petitions severall years had made fruitlesse Addresse to the late dissolved Parliament; I was resolved ever hereafter to have been a silent Spectator, and not a forward Actor; and sometimes I had been, having smarted for presuming to tell those late Demi-Gods of that Change they are now sensible of: Seriously, It grieved my soule to heare the Complaints of the Country people, when they told me, how Tyrannous, how Imperious, how like Prerogative men, many of the late Parliament carried themselves in their severall Counties. There could not be a Beneficiall Office by Sea or Land, but a Son, Kinsman, Nephew, or friend of theirs must have it, whilst the maimed Souldiers, or well-affected Christians, who had lost all his and their estate for their Service, were ready to starve; Nay many such did starve and dye for pure hunger, slighted, scorned, and unpitied by some of those unmercittull Presbiterians.

In December 1652. A Comet appeared; Comets (as wise men say) have power and effe^t over the Grosse and Masse of things, and are rather gazed upon by many, and waited upon in their journey, then wisely observed in their effects.

However, then I began to rouse up my drousy and angry Genius, expecting assuredly a sudden Change, which timely came to passe, by an especiall Providence and wisdom of the Lord Generall Cromwell and Council of Officers, who taking into serious consideration, the Sloth, Drowsinesse and Selfe-endednesse of the then Parliament, and how little faith there was to be given to their Vote of sitting no longer then November 1654. they being become as cunning as Taylors, knew how to make that Vote two or three yards longer, &c.

I lay his Excellency in consideration of that great Trust & Power God had put into his hands, with the consent of his Council of Officers attempted more then any mortall man or men could doe, and in plaine termes the twentieth of April 1653. dissolves that Authority, to the great liking of the whole Nation, and so redeemed us all from a perpetuall Parliament.

Having with great Magnanimity performed this first part of his work, the Lord Generall notwithstanding Acts not *Cesar*s part, (if his ambition had led unto it, its possible he might) but most Christian like and very cheerfully renders the Sole Authority of England, Scotland, and Ireland into the hands of severall choyce men of every County in this Nation, July the fourth 1653. which day I hold to be the

the first of our redemption from Norman conquest in England.

Nor doth the late unaccustomed choyce of Members derogate from our Birth-right or Liberty of Election hereafter: It being the Sole and Hearty intention of the Lord Cromwell, rather to put us in possession of, then to infringe our Freedomes: Let the malicious pens of some malevolent enemies write what they will to the contrary. The necessity of the times enforced this Election; we of the Commonalty at this present being not fully capable of choosing fit Members for our owne good, as the present Emergency of the Commonwealth then required; Had we made our Election, we had ruined our selves thereby, and begot a second Civill War; (thanks to Master Presbyter.) I am confined to a little Paper, yet thus much I say, we ought to render the Lord Generall and his Council our serious thanks, and admire the greatnesse of his and their courage that durst attempt so high things; Let us scorne and trample under our feet such Pamphlets as daily vilifie his Excellency, Parliament or Council of State; they are the worst Enemies this Commonwealth hath, that so basely traduce Noble Actions: Let's not Credit such rebellious spirits as would be subject to no Authority.

Let us hope and beleve the desires, intentions and Genius of the Lord Generall, the Members of Parliament and Council of State are directed by an Active Providence highly to advance the honour of the English Nation: Let us without grumbling pay such Taxes as this Authority imposes. I assure the whole Nation, not any of the present Members are of the stock of Judas the bagge-carrier, wise Treasurers. If unanimously we submit to their wisdomes, we then shall make the King of Denmarke sensible of his folly: and acknowledge his imprudence in seizing on our Merchants Ships; we shall confirme a strict League with the Swede for advantage of England. We shall beat the Dutch so oft as they dare peep out of their Harbours; whose hearts are hardened by God like Pharaohs, that they may perish by blood and water; We shall comply with Spaine for good uses.

Whereas Master Gataker in his late frothy Vindication, with much Scurrility quotes Lucian the scoffer, Paphus and Balbus two Logger-headed Grammarians and Heathens against Astrology; that he may see how he hath plaid the soole to produce the judgment of disaffected men to the point in question: I let him know that Master Cleveland calls the late Synod of Presbyters thus,

Flea-bitten Synod; an Assembly brewd of Clerks, or like Rossin Crow, or Friars of both the orders, Black and Gray.

And Master Carpenter in page 459. begins his Epistle; Ad Classes lunaticas, et chimericas; and p. 62. tels the Classicall men they were frangmendacium, inanitas, Idolum; againe, infelci, impoliti medici, & ad Amussim Asini, Asinique Classici, p. 463. Vos sethe Calvinistica, sethe disse, subsecte, refectique: Vobis una precor sanam mentem, & elleboro perpurgata capis: these are his words, English this Mr. Gataker.
